

Isn't It Time This Farce Ended?

Hello Jonathan,

As you know, your Professional Indemnity insurance is due for renewal on 1st April.

I'm sure there are moments (endless sales calls from brokers, form filling & time/cost commitment) when yourself and your peers wonder if the advent of the open market for Solicitors PII in 2000 was necessarily a 'good' thing. It has literally become something of a farce and there's no end in sight...

Well, some good news, I can help. (And let me assure you, there is nothing 'highly improbable' about our approach)

What if:

- I can prettymuch guarantee a significant reduction on your PI insurance renewal this year and
- Protect you from the myriad calls from brokers who are suddenly PI specialists (yet barely understand PII let alone Solicitors PI requirements)

Interested?

This should interest you, because our (innovative & almost always successful) approach has made our professional services clients' renewal process so much easier and - and as I mentioned - the majority have reduced their premium by a significant amount whilst retaining commensurate cover with 'A' rated Insurers attaching SRA compliant policy wordings.

However, there is a caveat:

This approach requires integrity, discretion & persistence. Having said that, as a solicitor, those are all traits you should possess abundantia

If you genuinely would like to save your money and valuable time, please reply to this email with the subject header “Focus”

We will automatically email a precis of our approach, how and why it works and what you should do next

Any questions now or after you receive our 2nd email – please telephone XXXX XXX XXXX

Kind regards,

Andrew

P.S In addition - because we're part of - we can also arrange your other business insurance cover such as Employers/Public liability, Cyber liability, D&O and of course, buildings/office contents cover
